We explain below what interests we, or others, are trying to achieve when we process your personal information relying on this legal basis. Where we process personal information on the basis of a legitimate interest, then – as required by the GDPR – we have carried out a balancing test to document our interests, to consider what the impact of the processing will be on you and other individuals and to determine whether individuals’ interests outweigh our interests in the processing taking place. - Legal obligation – we have obligations to comply with legal and regulatory requirements under law in various jurisdictions in which our business operates. In certain cases, we have to use or disclose your personal information to meet these obligations.

Due to the global nature of our business, your personal information may be transferred (including remotely accessed) outside of the UK/EEA including, in particular, to the United States. Where these locations do not provide an adequate level of data protection, we ensure appropriate safeguards are in place to protect the transfer of your personal information to these countries. In the majority of cases, we will rely on lawful data transfer mechanisms. For example, CFA's IntraGroup Data Transfer Agreement ("IDTA") governs data sharing between CFA entities. This IDTA incorporates the Standard Contractual Clauses for the transfer of personal data to third countries pursuant to the GDPR, adopted by the European Commission under Commission Implementing Decision (EU) 2021/914 ("EU SCCs") as supplemented by the International Data Transfer Addendum to the EU SCCs ("UK Addendum").

. A copy of the relevant data transfer mechanism can be obtained for review on request by getting in touch with our contact details. Where we cannot rely on one of these transfer mechanisms to a country outside the EEA or UK, we rely on one of the derogations under the GDPR (e.g., consent).

The right to data portability	Enables you in certain circumstances to request we transmit personal information that you have provided to us, to a third party without hindrance, or to give you a copy of it so that you can transmit it to a third party, where technically feasible

These rights may be limited, for example, if fulfilling your request would reveal personal information about another person, or if you ask us to delete information which we are required by law or have compelling legitimate interests to keep.

We do not carry out any solely automated decision-making processes with regard to the assessment of your application for a franchisee role.

Wherever we rely on your consent, you have the right to withdraw that consent at any time, without affecting the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal.

If you wish to exercise any of these rights, please contact us at the contact details set out above.

If you have unresolved concerns, you have the right to complain to a data protection authority in the country that you reside in or, the country of your place of work or the country where the alleged infringement took place. In the UK, this will be the Information Commissioner's Office ("ICO"), the contact details for which can be found here. For all other EU/ EEA jurisdictions, a full list of data protection authority contact details can be found here.

5. WILL PROVISION OF YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION BE MANDATORY?

Where we collect personal information to administer a contract with you or to comply with our legal obligations, this is mandatory and we will not be able to manage the application relationship without this information. In all other cases, provision of the requested personal information is optional, but this may affect your ability to participate in certain roles or systems, where the information is needed for those purposes.

6. USE OF YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION FOR BACKGROUND CHECKS

Sometimes for confidentiality or other contractual purposes, certain background checks can only be carried out with your authorisation (e.g. to obtain qualifications from educational institutions, financial information from banks or from referees, to obtain criminal record checks). References to “authorisation” on any application/background check forms are typically for these purposes and are separate to and different from “consent” as a lawful basis under the GDPR. If your application is successful, we will provide further information about the checks involved and will obtain any necessary authorisations prior to completing such checks.

If you should have any query with respect to any results of such checks, you should contact us using the details above. If these searches result in the recording of any adverse information about you, you will be given the opportunity to make representations.

Where we use a background screening provider to carry out credit, identity and other background checks, we will share some of your personal information listed above with this provider who in turn will share this with relevant third parties to carry out such checks in connection with your Franchisee application. This includes sharing your personal information with credit reference agencies who may also give the information we share with them to other organisations who also want to check your credit status. When our provider asks the credit reference agencies about you or your business, the agencies will note it on your credit file. This is called a credit search and other lenders may see this and we may see credit searches from other lenders].

You can find out more about the credit reference agencies on their websites and how they process your personal data in the Credit Reference Agency Information Notice (CRAIN).

Here are links to the information notice for the Credit Reference Agencies we use
